Independent Study (I.S.)

All students work one-on-one with a professor to conceive, organize and complete a significant project within their field of study.

A photograph showing a male professor with glasses and a blue plaid shirt leaning over a table, pointing at a laptop screen. A female student with braided hair, wearing a red shirt and a dark jacket, is sitting at the table looking at an open book. The table also has a blue water bottle and some papers. They are in a bright room with large windows overlooking a green campus.

There is really no limit to what you can do!

Globalization

Develop initiative, self-confidence, independent judgment, creative problem solving, finely-tuned written and oral communication skills.

And how about that Tootsie Roll?

I.S. Monday is a celebration of academic proportions

“How The College of Wooster Puts It All Together”

In his best-selling book The Price You Pay for College, New York Times columnist Ron Lieber writes about value factors that are “worth paying for” in a college. Examples include great teaching and mentoring, small classes, stand-out career centers, and a diverse campus community.

He dedicates an entire chapter to one school that best represents these value aspects—
Wooster!

DAN GRIFFIS '94

A Positive Disruption in the Sports and Entertainment Industry

With 25 years of experience in marketing and sales in the sports and entertainment industry, Dan will share his thoughts on how to become a positive disruption in the industry. From a career of leading one of the worlds most revered brands (Target), to building an NHL franchise from scratch (Seattle Kraken), to becoming an entrepreneur and building one of the most successful and dynamic companies in sports and entertainment (OVG).

He will share his journey and what he has learned ... which all started with a degree from The College of Wooster. He earned a degree in history with honors from The College of Wooster and an MBA with high distinction from the University of Michigan Ross, School of Business. He is also proud to serve on two University of Michigan Board of Directors (Sport Management Advisory Board (SMAB) and the Board of the Ross School of Business) as well as the Board of Directors at Grambling State University and the Alumni Board at the College of Wooster. Dan currently lives in Los Angeles with his wife (Janna) and three children (Riley, Holden and Eliza).
